PUBLISHED BY THE STUDENT BODY OF MISSISSIPPI COLLEGE, CLINTON, MISS.

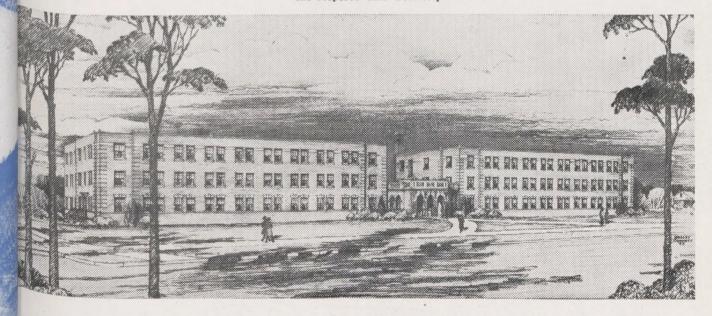

The Proposed Administration Building

Besides the endowed departments planned, two immediate objectives which claim our labors and prayers are the proposed Administration Building and the Girls' Dormitory. The Science Hall, now housing the administrative offices of the college, is badly congested; and in view of an expanded student enrollment, more laboratory and classroom space would necessitate the college staff moving out into the streets unless accommodations be afforded. The Administration Building as planned would provide the much needed space and records rooms for the staff and faculty. And the girls' quarters are going to be comfortable centers for courtable creatures. Boys, just you wait!

DEDICATION

Mississippi College is great, not simply out of a noble past, but also in this newly born present, because she is made up of an aggregation of great human souls. One of these of the finest is our Dr. Howard Spell, man of God truly, humble yet bold, scholar and master yet student, preacher of the Word and prince of a fellow, whose particular brand of modesty smacks of a well-disciplined life; and that—as a star supreme in the evening sky, whose twinkles are alternate dimmings and brightenings lest it appear arrogant or uncongenial to those of the lesser constellations.

By you, sir, we honor these efforts of ours.

Olle Honor

HOW ARD

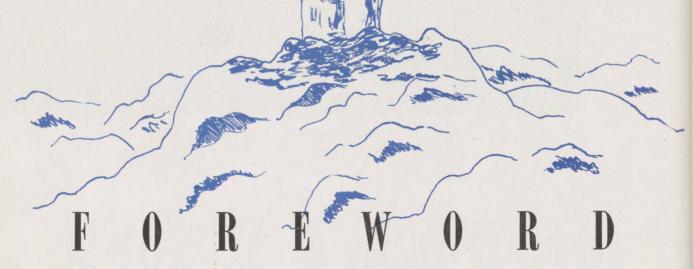

MAN OF GOD

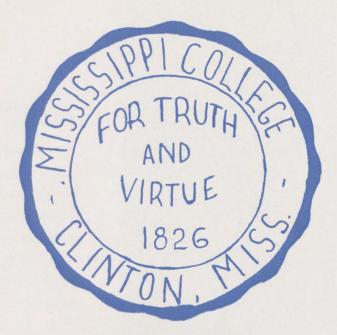

"I delight to do Thy will, O my God:
yea, Thy law is within my heart."
PSALM 40:8

Dr. Howard E. Spell

Just as the future task of publishing this work brings difficulties of hard and uncertain proportions, so appear the future days of our lives. Hence, the fullest, the most optimistic plans must be adhered to. We are not afraid of the coming years; not afraid to use our young minds, hearts, and bodies in coursing the most difficult paths of life. We are not afraid to live, to plan Christian homes, nor do we feel a condemnation from out our souls in bringing our posterity into this quagmire world. The task of life is laborious, but it is not for us an intolerable drudgery. Brightly shines the face of our Christ diamond-studded, the future. "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

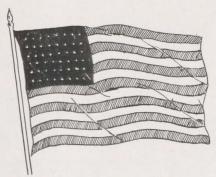

ALMA MATER

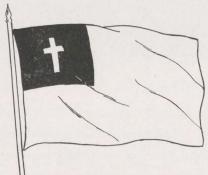

Fairest of all is our dear Mississippi, Rising in state as the crest of the hill; Staunch as a rock is our Dear Alma Mater, 'Round her so noble our hopes ever live.

When in the future, our hearts may be yearning For the bright scenes of our dear college youth, Back to thy portals our memories turning, Clear gleams thy beacons of virtue and truth.

M. C., we hail thee, our dear Mississippi, Queen of our hearts, no foe shall alarm; Faithful and loyal thy children shall ever Cherish thy mem'ry, acknowledge thy charm.

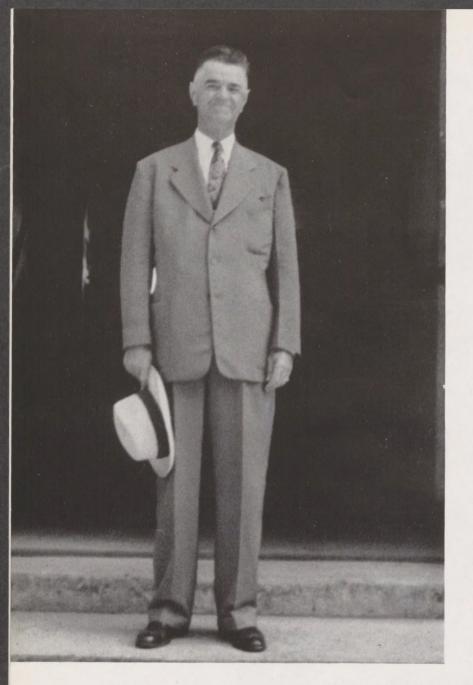

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the republic for which it stands—one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

I pledge allegiance to the Christian flag, and to the Savior for Whose Kingdom it stands—one brotherhood, uniting all mankind in service and love.

WEREVERE

DR. D. M. NELSON

Personal Notes . . .

Dr. Nelson is regarded by the entire student body as a Christian gentleman of the very highest order. His home just north of the Baptist Church has its doors opened at all times to student or neighbor who would come. His family are all loved by us who know them. Dr. Nelson loves the Lord's Church, is tops as a business man, neighbor, executive, citizen.

Official Notes . . .

Dr. Dotson McGinnis Nelson has been the faithful president of Mississippi College since 1932. Under his leadership the college has grown many fold in many directions. The financial condition of the school has come from uncomfortable to excellent. Plans are being realized speedily, placing M. C. in line for first honors among colleges anywhere. We feel that we have God's man at the head of our school.

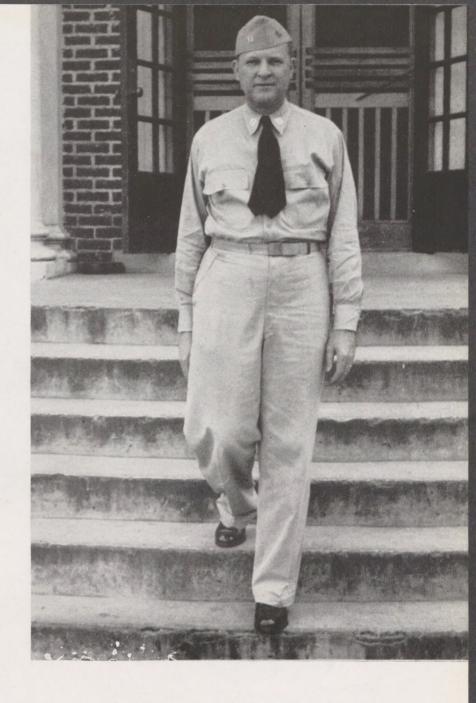

PRESIDENT

LIEUT. WATTS

Personal Notes . . .

Lieutenant Benjamin Christopher Watts has not only been an ideal officer before his men, but his congenial personality and prompt courtesy has been an example for emulation to all on the campus. He is a gentleman and a scholar.

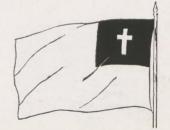

Official Notes . . .

Lieutenant Watts assumed command of the unit early in 1944 and has had under his supervision more than 500 fine young men taking training prerequisite to taking their commissions in the navy. Disciplinary action has seldom been necessary, speaking highly for Mr. Watts' ability to lead. Mississippi College has considered herself fortunate in having this fine commander on the campus.

STUDENT BODY OFFICERS

Though dealing with a war-time student body, the Student Government Association has carried on with typical efficiency. Our organization has sponsored the buying of war bonds, the drives of the Red Cross, as well as drives of our school's Enlargement Program. It is our desire that our future student bodies will also put forth sincere efforts for the Enlargement Program. One of our happy privileges this year was the resumption of awarding the varsity "M" to each man who earned it on the basketball court. In this student body organization students learn much about democracy, which will always be our way of life.

EDITORIAL STAFF

The impossible is taking place. The 1945 TRIBESMAN is being published. The two first-elected staffs made invaluable contributions to the beginning of the yearbook, but the entire plan and execution of the plan was the result of fine cooperation on the part of the Editorial Staff. The procurement of pictures was nearly impossible. It was late in May before print paper could be secured for a large part of our photographic work. It's coming out much later than planned—but, it's coming out!

Immediate right, standing: Mable Gardner, typist; Orman Knight, associate editor; Betty Breeland, assistant editor; seated:

Extreme right: John Vandercook, Navy editor.

BUSINESS STAFF

The work of The Business Staff made possible the production of this yearbook. Their task was accomplished with thoroughness many weeks before it was expedient. Ellis and his able assistants proved themselves unexcelled in the soliciting of advertising patrons. Shortly before the completion of the task of financing the publication, Ellis was called to service in the Navy.

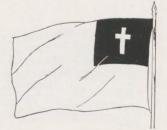

Percy and Colbert finished the job in a superb manner.

The year 1944 marked the beginning of many important events at M. C., and one of these was the revival of The Collegian, college newspaper, which has lain dormant for two years. Due to the interest and splendid cooperation of the students and faculty, an editorial staff was selected, plans and preparation were made for beginning publication, and the first issue rolled off the press in September. Like Mississippi College as a whole, The Collegian is looking forward to greater days. And be it hereby resolved: The Collegian shall never die!

The Ministerial Association endeavors to bind together the hearts of all the Ministerial students as they prepare for the noble work to which they are called. The year '44-'45 has been successful in this respect as indicated by large numbers attending the meetings and participating in the opportunities for social and Christian fellowship. We shall not forget the hours we have prayed, sung, and mourned together; nor shall we lose from our memories the fervent debates in which we have engaged and to which the passing days add humorous coloring.

ASSOCIATION

Some twenty-five, or more, years ago, the local W. M. S. began a program by which the wives of the ministers living in Clinton could receive valuable training in public speaking and other cultural benefits. This program grew into the M. W. A. of the present day. Today the wives of the ministers meet once a week for devotion, inspiration, and social reasons, learning how to augment the services of their Godcalled husbands in any way and all ways. Problems and methods about leadership among the ladies of church life are studied. This organization is a vital part of the campus life, serving the school loyally and training women to be helpmeets to those circles about of God to evangelize.

One of the important religious organizations on the campus is the Ann Haseltine Y. W. A. Through thoughtful study of the message of the Bible and a comprehensive study of modern methods of missions, the students come to a fuller realization of the spiritual and physical needy, not only around about them, but throughout the world. Under the faithful leadership of Mrs. E. L. Douglas, counselor, the Y. W. A. has become a vital part of the activities on the campus.

The president, Hollis McNeer, expresses his appreciation to the other officers for their splendid cooperation. The Mission Band has proved its worthwhileness this year and it is expected to become the outstanding organization on the campus.

The principal means of accomplishing this purpose is through the review of books, open discussions among the members, and through outside reading. The Philomathean Literary Society has been one of the important educational organizations of the campus. The programs which the members of the society have presented have been instructive and interesting. It has been remarked that none of the clubs have received the interest that is usual for these splendid organizations, but it has not been because of the lack of leadership. May there be a rallying to the old-time fervor of debate and oratory as becomes genuine Philomatheans.

The programs which have been produced have enlightened the members on some of the outstanding questions of comtemporary world conditions. One of the most democratic ideas in the school found expression among the boys occupying Jennings Hall. The purpose of most organizations is regulation. It was expedient that some system be devised whereby a conflict of inalienable rights might be avoided, especially the right to yell when the fellow next door had the right to study for the quiz next day. Hence, the boys covenated together under a constitutional government to regulate and define their system of fellowship. Now, instead of being known as the Jennings Hall gang, they are known as the Alumni Hall bunch, for they have moved.

Mrs. Grace Elsey, talented wife of Professor E. N. Elsey, is an ideal companion to her husband. She, too, is an accomplished musician and has served as accompanist for all of the voice organizations in the department.

The Choral Union which is made up of the combined men's and women's glee clubs has done outstanding work. The mid-winter concert was a foretaste of programs to follow. The outstanding production of the year was "The Seven Last Words of Christ," by Theodore DuBois. This cantata was given at the First Baptist Church in Vicksburg, Cavalry Baptist Church in Vackson, and twice at Clinton Baptist Church.

The staff has worked hard to make it the best possible and their reward is the satisfaction that they are doing the job in the traditional Navy way.

SHIP'S COMPANY

One of the invaluable assets to the success of Mississippi College has been the United States Navy V-12 Unit stationed on the campus. The unit has supplied students for the school, finances that helped place the school out of debt, spirit that made for an unusual wartime college atmosphere, and personalities that have been uplifting to the community. Several of the young men have won the highest honors the college and community of Clinton bestowed. The officers and the headquarters personnel deserve the highest praise for the high standard of young gentlemen they have commanded and served.

WILLIAM AUDISH Chief Specialist (A), USNR

The unit was fortunate in having the fine staff of EM to serve them while they were on the campus. The Chiefs and clerks had a difficult task to care for the needs of the men, to keep records and do the necessary correspondence, to watch their health, to supervise their recreational habits, to inspect, and to fill a thousand and one other jobs, sometimes not without incurring on themselves a spurt of salty invective. Well done, boys; you helped make or break many an admiral!

It is no easy job—the task of writing the last page. Too many have been the things we wanted to go into the making of this yearbook: things restricted or scarce because of the war. This is not the ideal book planned. We have cheerfully borne the private and general inconveniences of rationed or restricted supplies and there is no bitterness within us because we could not do all we wanted to. We are thankful for the supplies we were able to obtain and would have gladly relinquished our desire for any materials vital to our war effort.

May we here express our gratitude to the student body for their large patronage, to the faculty for their willingness to cooperate, to Dr. Thompson for redeeming us out of an impossible situation by taking so many of the group pictures, to Miss Eilene Ferguson for her sweet encouragement and eagerness to help, to Miss Margaret Bibb for her splendid work in the art scheme of the book, and to Dr. Nelson, our noble president, for his devotion to Mississippi College and his boosting of every effort to portray the greatness of our school.

One word to those malicious in their designs and possessing the subtleness of Satan in their tactics to tear down what has been built and the worthy builders: we are not afraid of the judgment of our God; are you?

A charming white country house furnished the idea for the background in cool, white drop-siding combined with pleasant country green, making a delightful environment for the intriguing things displayed in this department.

The Town and Country Shop is more than just a sportswear department—for here you will find a splendid collection of casual clothes for town and country—dresses, suits, coats designed by the most renowned makers of this type of clothes. If you are looking for the unusual in sports clothes, you will eventually come to the Town and Country Shop, Jackson's Fashion Center.
